Consumer Outreach

Describe consumer outreach efforts in the past 12 months: Events, Sponsorship, Newsletters, Bill inserts

Methodology for Functionality Levels

In talking with the customer, we ask them questions about what they currently have for a cell phone and how they would use the new handset. For example what we would ask would be, "What type of features/benefits are they looking for?". It is out of the information collected (through this type of dialogue) that then we determine which handset(s) would fit their needs and then we let the customer decide which one to purchase.
